

I've been informed that the FCC is considering allowing LPFM to take precedence over FM translator service.

This would be a serious loss to many communities.

I listen to and financially support K-LOVE radio.

Via FM translator, K-LOVE provides a rare and extremely valuable service, that far exceeds any purely local service I can receive.

Quality contemporary Christian radio has become a rare service, and this is why I and many others in my community and accross the country support K-LOVE financially.

The signal is already marginal due to nearby stations in the band. To add further competition would make me unable to receive the signal.

In addition to great nation-wide programming, K-LOVE provides announcements about local activities that I am interested in.

Please preserve valuable FM translator services.

Thank you,
Steven Faulkner
